REESE IS A WONDER

A Mystifying Gentleman Whose Powers
Are Extensive and Startling.

LOOKING INTO THE FUTURE

He Predicts a Tremendous Fire in Butte on July 22—He Performs
All These Feats Just for the Fun of the Thing.

"The election is as good as over and Bryan is virtually elected. He will carry New York and Ohio and will be the next president of the United States beyond a doubt." This was the declaration made by Prof. Burt Reese of Chicago in the lobby of the Butte hotel, and he had performed so many startling feats during the afternoon and shown himself to be possessed of such wonderful powers that his statement regarding the election attracted a great deal of attention and had a most inspiring effect on his hearers. Those who came under his mysterious spell yesterday afternoon believed the assertion without a second's hesitancy and are convinced that the casting of the ballots in November and the counting of them will be a mere formality. Professor Reese is the most mysterious and mystifying person who has ever visited Butte. Without attempting to explain the secret of his remarkable power he reads people's minds at will and tells them all about things which they imagine no one except themselves knew anything about. The strangest part of it all, however, is the fact that he does not use his psychological power or whatever it may be called to make money, but simply for his own entertainment, the amusement of his friends and the mystification of everyone with whom he comes in contact. He is a mining expert of considerable note and it is quite possible that his mental gift has assisted him in attaining success in his profession by enabling him to divine the richness of a property and the extent and value of the ore bodies from the surface. If he cannot get through the ground it is about the only thing he can't do.

He came in yesterday morning from the Trail creek country, where he expected some mines for Chicago parties and will leave for the East this morning. He had not been in the city more than a few hours until he had the people around the hotels standing on their heads, figuratively speaking. Charley Lane and W. M. Tuohy, both of whom were confirmed scoffers at mind reading, were standing at the clerk's desk talking about the professor's mine near Rochester, when Professor Reese good-naturedly took a hand in the conversation. To Mr. Tuohy he said:

"I'll bet you $100 to $10 that I can tell you where your mine is, what you paid for it, how deep it is and what it runs across the face." Mr. Tuohy looked at him in blank amazement and declined as he was not sure what kind of a game he was going against. Then the professor turned to Mr. Lane and said: "I will bet you $100 to $10 that I can tell you where you were born and the year you were born, your mother's maiden name, the inscription on the ring you wear and when and where you bought your shoes and what you paid for them."

"Then it was Mr. Lane's turn to stare. He at first declined the offer, but after the professor offered to make it $10 against two cigars, he accepted. He then went into another room and wrote out the answers to the questions on four slips of paper which were carefully folded so as to conceal every trace of the pencil. Three of these slips were handed to bystanders and the professor burnt the fourth one up without unfolding it. He then placed his forefinger against Mr. Lane's forehead and told him all that he had agreed to. "You were born," he said, "at Natick, Mass., May 13, 1854. The inscription on your ring is 'C. E. L. Reese, Carbon, friends, May 13, 1855.' You bought your shoes of Fred Holbrook and paid $5 for them." He also told him his mother's maiden name, and Mr. Lane admitted every statement was correct. He offered to tell Mr. Lane when he would die, but the offer was declined with thanks.

While this feat was being discussed George Casey approached the party with an unopened letter in his hand. "That letter," said Reese, "is from your sister. Her name is May Beecher and she now lives in Canada, but formerly lived in Butte." Mr. Casey said he was correct, but refused to allow him to tell what the letter contained or how much money he had in his pockets. Turning to E. L. Whitmore the professor told him who gave him the ring he was wearing, the date of the presentation and the inscription on the inside. He offered to bet $100 to $10 that he could tell how much money there was in his safe and the amounts in gold, silver and currency. Later on the professor called on H. L. Frank, to whom he had a letter of introduction, and had some fun. He told something of the history of every man to whom he was introduced and thoroughly mystified every one with whom he came in contact. Last evening he was entertained at the Silver Bow club and furnished an endless amount of amusement for the members by the exercise of his supernatural powers.

While at the Silver Bow club on Saturday night Professor Reese predicted that Butte would be visited by a tremendous fire on July 22 next and that the destruction of property would be appalling. On account of the many wonderful things which the professor has done there are some people who believe that he can look as far into the future as he wants to and every one who heard the prediction has put the date of the promised conflagration down in his notebook.

FAREWELL SERMON.

Rev. William Rollins Takes Leave of His Mountain View Congregation.

Rev. William Rollins preached his farewell sermon in the Mountain View M. E. church last evening, the church being crowded to the doors and not a few being unable to get inside the building. The text chosen was I. Cor. xvi-19: "If Timotheus come see that he may be with you without fear, for he worketh the work of the Lord as I also do," and was devoted entirely to suggestions to the church and congregation as to how they should help the new pastor and not hinder him in his work in this city. He thanked the friends in the town who had stood by him during his three years' residence in Butte, and said that he was glad he had come to Butte, for no man who has not lived here can get in touch with the vigor and independence of western thought as he can here. There is no place where the cobwebs can be brushed off so well as in Butte. If they can be brushed off the brain anywhere on earth the most work will be most rapidly and thoroughly done here.

Rev. Mr. Gliddon, who was present, spoke of Mr. Rollins' work in Butte, and said that he had liked Mr. Rollins because he had backbone, and cared nothing for fossilized creeds or heterodoxy or orthodoxy and was not afraid to be called a heretic if need be, his object being to open doors that lead into new fields of thought. He also commended the bold stand he took on the gambling question, he being, so far as Mr. Gliddon knew, the only settled pastor who had come out and fought the evil, and he evidently cared not whether he was financially or otherwise injured by so doing. At the close of the service a general leave taking occurred, most of the congregation going forward to shake hands with and bid farewell to their pastor.

AN UNUSUAL NUMBER.

M. C. McCullom, J. G. Paul, Charles
Weststock and Two Infants Dead.

There was an unusual number of deaths in Butte yesterday. M. C. McCullom, a well-known miner, died at Murray & Freund's hospital from typhoid fever after an illness of about six weeks. He was 29 years old and had lived in Butte for the last 10 years. His parents in Canada have been communicated with and the body may be shipped to his old home for burial.

John G. Paul of Elkhorn arrived in the city on Friday and was soon afterwards severely attacked with chronic phthisis. He was removed to Dr. Wells' hospital, where he died yesterday morning. His wife arrived yesterday and he will be buried by the I. O. O. F.

Charles, the 14-year-old son of Philip Weststock of South Dakota street, died from typhoid fever.

Frankie, the 6-weeks-old son of Samuel Ferris of Utah avenue, and Rose, the 10-months-old daughter of John Jennings, of No. 510 East Second street, South Butte, also died yesterday.

"THE VENDETTI."

At the Auditorium Next Thursday for a Three Nights' Engagement.

The readers of Marie Corrella's great story of "The Vendetti" will have an opportunity of seeing the dramatized version at the Auditorium next Thursday evening, when Arden Benedict will begin a three nights' engagement. "The Vendetti" is one of the most thrilling stories of its kind and gives great scope for the making of a powerful play. It admits of several striking scenic effects, Naples and its surroundings, where the action of the play occurs, affording the scenic artist every facility for the production of the picturesque. The last scene in the play is the eruption of Mt. Vesuvius, which is a most realistic effect. The sale of seats for "Fazio Romani," or "The Vendetti," begins Wednesday morning at Newbro's drug store.

THE DISABLED PARIS.

Details of the Accident to Her Machinery and How She Reached Shore.

Southampton, Oct. 18.—The American line steamship Paris, Captain Wilkins, from New York, reached her dock in this city at 9 o'clock this morning. She reports that at 9 o'clock in latitude 40 degrees 45 minutes north and in longitude 67 degrees west, while going at a moderate rate of speed in calm weather her starboard tail shaft broke. The engines were immediately stopped and a boat lowered and an examination made, from which it was ascertained that the propeller had been jammed and broken. The shaft was secured and the ship proceeded with one engine. There was not the slightest uneasiness among the passengers over the turn of affairs, and the officers were all perfectly cool. The North German Lloyd steamship Fuerst Bismarck, which arrived in New York Oct. 9, bringing the first news that the Paris was disabled, was sighted two hours after the ship had got under way again. The Paris kept in the track of westbound steamers during the voyage in order to be reported and to be able to request aid if it were needed. The weather was moderate and fine throughout the voyage except on two occasions when there were gales. No cause is assigned for the accident, but it is thought to have been due to a flaw in the shaft. All speak in the highest terms of the coolness and seamanship displayed by the officers in whom they had the most complete confidence.

Crowds witnessed the arrival of the Paris. It was found that her shaft had broken about 50 feet from the screw. The Fuerst Bismarck offered to tow her back to New York, but Captain Wilkins declined. During the voyage efforts for the temporary repair of the shaft were futile. On Oct. 15 there was a terrific gale which caused some alarm among the passengers, but Captain Wilkins easily reassured them. From the time of the accident the average speed of the ship was 12½ knots an hour. The Paris was placed in dry-dock to-night for repairs.

HIS FATAL ATTEMPT

James Skinner Trying to Beat His Way to Rock Springs.

HE FELL UNDER THE CARS

The Mangled Remains of the Man
Who Was Killed at Divide Brought to Butte for Interment.

Coroner Richards returned last evening from Divide with the body of the man who was run over by a Union Pacific train Saturday evening. The dead man was first seen at Divide about 1 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, and he told three or four men with whom he talked that his name was James Skinner. He said that he came originally from Rock Springs, Wyo., but that he had been up to Belt trying to get work in the coal mines there. He could not work, he said, but for the fact that he had no money with which to buy tools and he had started to beat his way back to Rock Springs. He had got as far as Divide, and he said that he intended to beat his way to Rock Springs.

When the southbound train arrived at 5:15 o'clock p. m. Skinner was seen walking beside it, and when it pulled out a minute later his mangled body was found lying between the rails about 30 yards south of where the engine had stood when the train was standing at the depot. Blood, pieces of bone and shreds of clothing were found scattered along the track for 100 yards. The man's right leg had been torn out at the thigh, his left leg was crushed to a pulp and the left side of his head was crushed in.

The mangled remains were gathered up in a sack and placed in the depot and the coroner was notified. The coroner drove down to Divide yesterday morning and held an inquest on the ground. The facts, as above stated, were brought out and a verdict was returned to the effect that Skinner came to his death while attempting to steal a ride. The supposition is that he attempted to climb onto the brake beam after the train started and that he missed his footing and was cut to pieces. The coroner brought the body in and will bury it.

THE REBEKAHS.

Meeting of the Grand Assembly—Entertainments Promised.

Special Dispatch to the Standard.
Helena, Oct. 18.—The grand assembly of the Rebekahs will meet in Helena to-morrow. A large delegation of ladies arrived to-day from Butte and other delegates by the score are expected from all early trains to-morrow morning. The grand assembly will be followed by the Grand Lodge Independent Order of Odd Fellows, which will convene Tuesday. That will continue two days and then the grand encampment will take up the following day and conclude the events of the week.

Local lodges have planned an elaborate entertainment for the visitors. There will be several receptions given to the Rebekahs and Wednesday evening there will be a musical and literary entertainment at the Auditorium, which will conclude with a ball.
